

- (1) Briefly summarize the important concepts you learned this week.
- (2) What topics, if any, would you like to revisit together in Friday's discussion section?
- (3) What is going well - what aspects of the course are facilitating your learning?
- (4) What is not going well - what aspects of the course are not facilitating your learning? If you have any suggestions that you believe would improve the course, feel free to share them here.

Notes for NFTA 2020 participants:

- (i) These were assigned weekly after the last class and due a couple hours before the 4th hour discussion section (usually on Friday). Don't forget to give yourself enough time between the deadline and the start of class to actually read them!
- (ii) Reflections counted towards the final grade, but in the syllabus were referred to as something like 'extra credit', or 'will go towards your overall quiz grade'.
- (iii) Jody mentioned some higher quality questions that one could ask midway through the term. Through experimentation, I found these 4 questions to be the right ones to ask students on a weekly basis.
- (iv) As many people mentioned today, it is incredibly rewarding to the instructor and students when some piece of feedback (say from question 4) is implemented and the course improves for everyone! I make a point to sit down and read each of my students' reflections, if not before the Friday section, then in the next few days.
